Notes

¹ You must submit a petition by the spring defense-scheduling deadline to be eligible for a summer defense.

² It is recommended that you identify a target defense date with your committee early in the semester to help ensure that they will be available when you plan to defend.

³ Spring graduates: To participate in spring commencement, you must schedule your defense by this date. (MS summer graduates: If you petition for a summer defense by this date, you are eligible to participate in spring commencement.)

⁴ You must hold and pass your defense by the deadline to be eligible for degree release in that semester. No exceptions. If you meet this requirement, you may participate in commencement, but you will not receive the degree until revisions are complete and all requirements are satisfied.

IMPORTANT: The Graduate Education deadlines represent minimum times to complete the steps. Typical times are longer because committees usually ask for revisions at the defense. Be sure to submit a quality document to minimize revisions and to allow your committee sufficient time to complete their pre-defense reviews (two weeks) and approve your revisions (one week). Rushing this process rarely results in success. For detailed instructions on defense steps, consult the checklist in the D2L Thesis and Dissertation Submission course. If you don't see this course in D2L by the third week of the semester, please notify the Graduate Office.
